OHCS encourages family trips during scheduled school vacations and strongly discourages such trips during the year because a significant amount of teaching and learning takes place during class time, and in many cases it is impossible to replicate or replace instruction that a student has missed. The wisdom of missing school at this time depends largely on progress in the classroom. Our teachers will attempt to provide appropriate assignments as much as is practical before the planned absence, however the parent/student should check in with their teacher after returning to inquire whether additional assignments need to be made up.
